The SafetyLit webserver was compromised during the last week of 2007. This led to several problems. Among other things, the SafetyLit database was damaged and all articles added between 3 January and 23 January had to be removed and reentered. This caused the links within this weeks update to be broken. Thus, the contents of this issue of the SafetyLit weekly update have been reprinted with corrected links to the abstracts. Please see the update for the week of 28 January 2008. The 28 January update includes all material from volume 11 issue numbers 2 and 3, as well as the new content of volume 11, issue number 4.
