Changes are coming to SafetyLit

Throughout the next few weeks SafetyLit will undergo several obvious and not-so-obvious changes. Among the less obvious changes will be:

- 1) We are adding more contents from social science and law journals.
- 2) Until recently we have been presenting journal names and abbreviations and article titles as provided by the publisher. We are in the process of making these conform to ISO-4 and Anglo-American Cataloguing Rules. This change for consistency is to allow personal bibliography management software to better conform these metadata items to fit the citation requirements of any journal.
- 3) Improvements are being made to the "browse journals" utility. The obvious changes will be obvious when you see them. This involves a complete redesign of the SafetyLit website to make it easier to get to the content you want with fewer clicks.
